$2398 OF CITY FUNDS AND AUTO STOLEN IN HOLDUP

Park Department Collector
Pulled Out of Machine Parked Near Bank at Delmar and Euclid.

SECOND ROBBER FOLLOWED IN CAR

Both Machines Driven Away After Bag Containing Bus and Refreshment Stand Receipts Is Taken.

The city was the victim of hold-up men today, $2398 being taken from a Park Department collector by two robbers, near the busy corner of Delmar boulevard and Euclid avenue, at 11:15
a. m.

Paul Brand of 5970 Minerva avenue was the collector. He had made the rounds of park refreshment stands and the Forest Park stand, taking up Sunday receipts.
Leaving Forest Park, he drove up
a city car to the Savings Trust Co., 4311 Delmar boulevard, parking on the north side of the street.
As Brand started to alight with a canvas bag containing the money,
a Buick occupied by two men stopped behind him. One of the men slipped up to Brand quickly, pressed a revolver against the collector's ribs, swore at him, seized the bag and pulled Brand out of the car.

Almost before Brand could realize what was happening, he said, the robber jumped in his car with the money bag and drove west, being followed by the Buick. The car turned north in Aubert avenue.

The Ford roadster was found abandoned an hour later in front of 1118 North Euclid avenue.

Students End 60-Hour Wake Period in Test

Fatigue Experiment Conducted With Girls and Men by Head of Psychology Department of George Washington U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Heavy eyed and showing the strain of their long ordeal, seven of the eight George Washington University students last night ended their 60-hour fight against sleep.
The scientific test, under Dr.
Fred A. Moss, head of the psychology department of the university and Dr. Oscar Hunter, dean of the medical school, began Friday at 6
a. m.

At periodic intervals the four young men and four young women were put through psychological tests and physical examinations.
Valuable data is being secured, it is said, on mental and physical reactions of different types of individuals under conditions of fatigue and sleeplessness.

During the first day the "subjects" went about their accustomed routine, some working in Government bureaus and others taking their regular college examinations.
Games and Puzzles First Night.
The first night they were herded together in one of the professorial homes and waited for the dawn with the aid of games and crossword puzzles.

On Saturday morning they dragged themselves back to the regular school and office work.
A baseball game between the world champions and New York Yankees kept their eyes open Saturday afternoon.

Saturday night Dr. William Middleton of Falls Church, Va., dropped out at the command of the professors and after 42 waking hours put in six hours of perfect sleep. Special tests were then made on this "subject."

Meanwhile the other sleep fighters were being driven frantically around the nearby countryside, counting the stars to keep awake. Their skill in driving an automobile and responding to traffic signals was checked under these conditions. Yesterday was given over to music and folk dances.

Ages Range From 17 to 33.
Ages of those taking the tests range from 17 to 33, the four girls being under 25. Some are coffee drinkers, some complete abstain-

SEDAN PLUNGES INTO BAY; WOMAN DROWNED

Husband Stepped on Accelerator, Instead of Brake,
When Car Started.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—With hundreds of other motorists, Harry Lass, 55 years old, and his wife,
Anna, of Brooklyn, drove to Sheepshead Bay last night to enjoy the ocean breezes.

Lass found an opening among the scores of automobiles parked in Oriental boulevard and drove his sedan up to the curb. For half an hour he and Mrs. Lass, both telegraphers employed by brokerage firms, sat in the car while a breeze swept through the raised windshield. On the rear seat lay their dog chained to the car.

Then Lass decided to move to another spot along the bay. Unaware that he had left his gears in first speed, he started the engine.
The sedan climbed the curb and started across a gravel walk toward the edge of Sheepshead Bay, 15 feet away. Lass groped for the brake with his foot. Instead he stepped on the accelerator. The sedan shot across the gravel path.
Mrs. Lass screamed. The dog barked. Gathering speed, the car bumped over a nine-inch concrete bulkhead and turned turtle as it plunged, wheels up, into six feet of water.

Calls were sent for police for an ambulance, for fire apparatus. Two men in bathing suits dived into the bay near the submerged sedan.
After a minute's work they opened one of the car doors under water and brought Lass, nearly unconscious, to the surface.

Meanwhile life guards from the United States Volunteer Life Saving Station at Manhattan Beach arrived and joined in the efforts to extricate Mrs. Lass from the machine. After seven minutes they succeeded. Two ambulance surgeons from Coney Island Hospital immediately began application of artificial respiration methods. Lass was taken to the life-saving station, where he received treatment for lacerations and then was sent to Coney Island Hospital.
He will recover.

For three hours the physicians worked over Mrs. Lass. Then they pronounced her dead. She was 55 years old.

MEN FORCE WAY INTO ROOM AND ATTACK TWO GIRLS

Young Women Declare Intruders Demanded Admittance, One of Them Threatening to Shoot.

Police who went to a rooming house at 1739 Waverly place, at 1:30 a. m. today, in response to a telephone message, found two of the roomers, Miss Dorothy Day, 18,
and Miss Melba Chesbrough, 18, both factory workers, in tears and near hysterics.

The girls, who occupy the same room, said they were awakened half an hour earlier by three men who demanded admittance to the room, one threatening to shoot
Miss Chesbrough unlocked the door and the three entered.

Three Men Arrested.
While one man kept his hand in a coat pocket, as if clutching a revolver, the other two attacked the girls, they said. The men then departed, saying they were "going to get something to eat."

The girls accompanied the policemen to a lunchroom at Jefferson street and 14th avenue, where they pointed out three men inside.
One man jumped through the window, taking the screen along, but was arrested, as were the other two.

The window jumper identified himself as Arthur Hartman, 25, 4427 Wilcox avenue, and the others
as brothers, Charles Loesch, 27, of 2329 Whittemore place, and Walter Loesch, 26, of 1721 South
Jefferson avenue. The girls positively identified Hartman and Walter Loesch as the ones who attacked them, while Charles Loesch stayed on guard.

Examination at city hospital corroborated the fact of the attack.

WARRANTS ISSUED

Warrants charging the three men with criminal attacks were issued by the Circuit Attorney. The men made no statements.

Hartman, a chauffeur, with a record of being arrested 26 times, was sentenced last January to 14 days in the workhouse for careless driving and operating an automobile while intoxicated. In March, 1924, he was sentenced to 30 days
for driving a car without a license.
Last month he applied at city hospital for treatment for a bullet wound, which he said was accidentally inflicted.

WOMAN ATTACKED AFTER ACCEPTING OFFER TO RIDE HOME

Police are searching for three men, two of whom are said by Mr.
Fern Brennan, 22 years old, of 1423 Mallinckrodt street, to have attacked her Saturday night after she had accepted their offer to take her home from a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barth Schuler at 1012 Park avenue.

Instead of taking her home the men drove her across the Free Bridge about 10:30 p. m. and proceeded to Lake Drive, about two miles east of East St. Louis. Here they attacked her and held her until 11 o'clock the Sunday morning.
They left her and she was taken by a motorist to East St. Louis, where she was sent to St. Mary's Hospital.

The Ford roadster used by the men bore a Missouri license plate issued to John Ritter, 2406 South Broadway. Mrs. Brennan said that Ritter had no part in the attack.

FEWER STRIKES IN ITALY UNDER FASCISTICapital and Labor Show a Greater Degree of Co-Operation.By HIRAM KELLY MODERWELL
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.

(Copyright 1932.)

ROME, Italy, July 16.—An industrial program that would abolish strikes, and the war of the classes, re-establish discipline in field and factory, and increase the national production to its maximum—that is what the Fascist Government offered Italy when it seized power in 1922. Instead of trade unions, always seeking to raise a little more from capital there were to be guilds, comprising both employers and employed who must agree on a fair distribution of the product of collaborating labor and capital and in case they could not agree must accept the decision of the Government. A just wage to the workman if he would work and if he would not—a man in a black shirt, armed with a club or a revolver.

It is nearly three years since the march on Rome. It is possible to give a resume of Italy's industrial and economical progress. First, however, it should be remembered that the "Fascist industrial program" has never existed as a fixed and written schedule of detailed aims and methods. It can only be inferred from the speeches of Fascist leaders and the acts of the Government.

The Profits of Collaboration.

Mussolini's theory of industrial relations is somewhat as follows: The product of industry is the result of the collaboration of labor and capital; neither can permanently profit at the expense of the other; rather it is true that the more each contributes the more each will receive.

But that is not all; the nation also contributes to industry through its protecting laws, and frequently through customs tariffs and subsidies, direct or indirect. Similarly, the nation benefits from industry, in general prosperity and economic and political strength. Therefore the "war of the classes" is absurd. The truth is that labor and capital profit by collaborating with the state for the supreme good of the nation.

The Fascist, to realize that aim, organized "corporations" intended to take the place of trade unions. These corporations included both employers and employed in each branch of industry. The representatives of both, together with the technical directors, were to agree on wages and other conditions for the good of the industry. The workers were permitted to have shop committees, but they were not to assume the position of legal compulsory arbitrator. The old Socialist or Catholic trade unions were not legally abolished, but were placed under difficulties in recruiting members or conducting strikes.

Dispute Fascist Claims. The Fascist trade unions claim 1,750,000 members, of whom nearly half are in agriculture and nearly 400,000 more are clerks or members of the professions. Many of them state employees. The claim of strength of the Fascist corporations in industry is disputed. Their opponents claim that many thousands are included in the Fascist union purely for protection, but follow Socialist leadership in times of crises. They point out that when the Fascist unions called a strike in the metal trades in North Italy 20,000 responded, but when a few days later the Socialists called out their forces 160,000 more downed tools.

The Fascist regime, incidentally, has never "forbidden" strikes, for it counts heavily on labor support and includes many violent syndicalists among its leaders, but its influence has generally been against strikes. The "strike record" of the Fascist regime can be shown best in the following—it is to be remembered that the Fascist seized power in October, 1922; Labor days lost through strikes—1919, 22,000; 1920, 20,000; 1921, 3,600; 1922, 6,000; 1923, 300,000; 1924, 1,200,000.

What, in terms of economic production, are the results of this impressive record? Accurate statistics are not available, but the following figures indirectly indicate the progress made.

Record of Business Activity. For the years 1922 and 1924, respectively, the consumption of electrical energy was 24,000,000 and 60,000,000 kilowatts; imports of coal and petroleum increased between 10 and 15 per cent; the export of cotton textiles was respectively 200,000 and 600,000 quintals.

SECRET CHEMICAL CO.
222 S. 10th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Between 1922 and 1923 the output of raw silk jumped from 4,000,000 to more than 8,000,000 kilograms, and the total output of textiles from 100,000,000 to 105,000,000. Total exports in 1922 and 1924 were respectively 9,300,000,000 and 12,000,000,000 lire. In those years the number of merchant ships entering Italian ports was respectively 250,000 and 440,000 and the goods loaded or unloaded respectively 23,000,000 and 32,000,000 tons. Rolling stock on the railways was diminished, but the total of goods loaded increased from 26,000,000 to 38,000,000 tons.

The record in agriculture does not appear so satisfactory. Despite the annexation of new provinces the area under cultivation is less in almost all branches than before the war and the yields for 1924 were almost consistently below the prewar average. Mussolini promised recently to take in hand personally the "agricultural war" to increase production and the crop prospects for this fall are excellent. One of the most satisfactory evidences of progress is the increase in savings-bank deposits from 9,300,000,000 to 12,000,000,000 lire and in postoffice savings banks from 5,600,000,000 to 9,600,000,000.

Not All See Rosy Outlook.

Italians are not all agreed as to the significance of these figures. Some point out that in most branches a steady improvement was seen before the march on Rome, which was not in every case continued at the same ratio afterward.

that the trade deficit thus far for 1925 is worse than that for several previous years; that the recent fall in the lira and increase in living costs threaten to throw the national economy and finances into confusion. They claim that the labor situation is not so bright as it appears on the surface. They assert that the diminution of unemployment from 400,000 to 100,000 is due partly to the demobilization of the war industries and the return to the farms, and takes no account of unemployment in the middle classes.

But all give credit to the Fascist regime for the notable diminution in strikes and the improvement in the railway services.

EXPORTS OF WHEAT
SHOW BIG INCREASE

Shipments Abroad in Fiscal Year Just Ended Twice as Great as 1924.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-22 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The United States exported twice as much wheat in the fiscal year just ended as it did in 1924, says the Department of Commerce. Foreign shipments totaled more than 195,000,000 bushels, or nearly four times as great as those of pre-war years. Only three times in the history of the nation—1915, 1921 and 1922—have the exports of wheat exceeded those of the past year.

Exports to China, Canada, Japan, Italy and France have shown a marked increase in four years. "The principal buyers of American wheat are essentially the same now as before the war, except that China may be considered as one of our more recent customers," says the announcement. "Measured in actual bushels exported, the most important countries and destination during the crop years 1922-1925 have been Canada, United Kingdom, Italy, Netherlands, Belgium, France, Germany and Japan. The exports to Canada are, as a rule, merely for re-export purposes."

"Although the exports of flour during the last fiscal year were nearly 3,500,000 barrels less than for the fiscal year 1924—shipments amounting to nearly 14,000,000 barrels—this amount is about 3,200,000 barrels greater than pre-war shipments."

"Compared with 1914 the flour exports of 1925 show an increase to Europe of 1,569,000 barrels, to South America 151,000 barrels, and to Africa 35,000. A decrease of 421,000 barrels occurred in exports to North America and of 4,717,000 barrels in shipments to Asia, chiefly China, including Hong Kong, and Kwantung, and Japan."

COOLIDGE HIKES TO SUMMIT OF HILL NEAR FATHER'S HOME

Leads Companions at Fast Climb Up and Down Rocks He Knew as Boy.

By the Associated Press.
PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 17.—The bald knob of Messer Hill, towering above the sky line back of his father's home, lured President Coolidge outdoors into the sunshine yesterday and he set out on a Sunday morning tramp which carried him to its summit.

In the afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and his father, he attended a nondenominational service in the simple Union Church just across the road from the family homestead.

Avoiding main traveled roads, congested by the automobiles of tourists who had Plymouth as their Sunday objective, the President, as Sunday objectives, the President, he started for the peak of Messer Hill, took to a curving lane that is little more than a wagon trail. The first and last stage of the journey was made in a Ford touring car belonging to C. W. Stearns of Springfield, Vt., a Deputy Sheriff who is assisting the executive's bodyguard here. Three secret service men accompanied the President.

For several miles the car bumped its way over the rocky road winding through the hills. Finally the President suggested a stop, stepped from the automobile, doffed his coat and put on a blue denim smock.

For the next hour or more the President, hiking up and down slopes he knew as a boy, led his companions along at a fast clip. They tramped through mud, scrambled up and down steep slopes and finally stood on the summit of the hill, high above the hamlet of Plymouth.

As a result of the eagerness of tourists to take souvenirs away from Plymouth, there was a shortage of hymnals and prayer books at Union Church here for the afternoon service. Church members said they once had an adequate supply but it had gradually dwindled under the tourists' "raids."

$12,000 ANNUITY NOT ENOUGH

So Boy, 12, Gets His Allowance Increased to $16,000.

HONOLULU, July 21.—Mrs. Elizabeth Knight of Los Gatos, Cal., recently appeared with her 12-year-old grandson, Richard Parker Smart, before Judge John R. Desha, of the court of domestic relations, and complained that it has been very difficult for young Richard to live within his annual allowance of $12,000. The boy, owner of the large Parker ranch on the island of Hawaii, is reputed to be a millionaire. The grandmother, as his guardian, petitioned the court to increase the allowance to $16,000, which was granted.

Mrs. Knight told the court that the servants employed in her home for the benefit of young Richard cost approximately $400 a month. In addition to the increased annual allowance the court authorized an expenditure of $2,000 to cover the cost of the boy's vacation in Hawaii and $1800 for distribution by the youngster among the employees of his cattle ranch when he visits his property to be the guest of the staff and cowboys.

SLAVERY IN ASIA, COMMISSION OF LEAGUE REPORTS

Openly Practiced in Several Mohammedan States, Particularly in the Arabian Peninsula.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Aug. 17.—Slavery is openly practiced in several Asiatic Mohammedan states, particularly in the Arabian Peninsula, including the kingdom of the Hedjaz, where many slaves are girls who came from the Far East as pilgrims to Mecca, says a report by the slavery commission of the League of Nations published today.

The commission recommends universal abolition of the legal status of slavery, and would give every slave the right to freedom without payment of money.

It suggests the establishment of a concentration point to which freed slaves may be sent pending their return to the country of their origin and also recommends the extension of the right to pursue slave dealers.

In order to end the abuses that tend to make forced labor virtually a disguised form of slavery, the League of Nations commission, suggests the prohibition of compulsory labor, except for public works, for which there must be adequate pay. The report insists the important thing is to eliminate servility among backward races by education.

ITALIANS SHOT BY ARAB REBELS ON CARAVAN ROUTE

EX-GANGSTER AIDED SHEPHERD
Latter's Lawyer Says O'Banion Man Gave $75,000 for Defense.
By the Associated Press.
DENVER, Colo., Aug. 17.—"Diamond Jack" Alterie, former lieutenant of Dion O'Banion, Chicago gangster, who was slain in an underworld feud, gave $75,000 to aid William Darling Shepherd in his successful fight against the charge of murdering William McCintock, Shepherd's millionaire foster son, according to William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel of Shepherd, who arrived in Denver Saturday night, to be a guest of Alterie at his ranch in Jarre Canyon, near here. Stewart described Alterie's financial backing of Shepherd's defense as a pure gamble. He declared that Alterie gave the money with the understanding that if Shepherd won he was to get the money back.

Stubborn sore on baby's ear

Quickly responds to Resinol
N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10:—
"I feel as though I must tell you of the good Resinol Ointment did for my baby. She had a very sore ear for about a year and I tried everything I heard of, but nothing seemed to help it. Then I heard of Resinol and tried it. It surely did the work, for in a couple of days you could scarcely tell that the ear had ever been sore. I'd never be without Resinol Ointment again."

SLAVERY IN ASIA, COMMISSION OF LEAGUE REPORTS

Openly Practiced in Several Mohammedan States, Particularly in the Arabian Peninsula.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, Aug. 17.—Slavery is openly practiced in several Asiatic Mohammedan states, particularly in the Arabian Peninsula, including the kingdom of the Hedjaz, where many slaves are girls who came from the Far East as pilgrims to Mecca, says a report by the slavery commission of the League of Nations published today.

The commission recommends universal abolition of the legal status of slavery, and would give every slave the right to freedom without payment of money. It suggests the establishment of a concentration point to which freed slaves may be sent pending their return to the country of their origin and also recommends the extension of the right to pursue slave dealers.

In order to end the abuses that tend to make forced labor virtually a disguised form of slavery, the League of Nations commission, suggests the prohibition of compulsory labor, except for public works, for which there must be adequate pay. The report insists the important thing is to eliminate servility among backward races by education.

CITY LEADS IN JULY 4 CASUALTIES REPORTED

Figures Show 73 Persons Seriously Hurt, 60 Suffering Minor Injuries.

St. Louis Fourth of July casualties this year, as reported to the American Museum of Safety, made the largest numerical showing among American cities, according to a bulletin issued from safety headquarters in New York.

The St. Louis figures show 73 persons reported as seriously hurt, and 60 as suffering minor injuries. It is stated that the large St. Louis showing of accidents, as compared with other places, "is undoubtedly due to the fact that St. Louis was more thorough in reporting Fourth of July casualties than other cities."

However, the fact that Chicago reported only 16 casualties and New York 10 is dwelt upon in comparison as showing "the effectiveness of restrictive legislation properly enforced."

News files show St. Louis figures differing from those of the safety report. The newspaper record of the two days following the last Fourth shows that one boy died from burns, one boy died from tetanus caused by a blank cartridge wound, and a woman was killed by a stray pistol shot. The Public Dispensary record showed that 147 persons were treated for powder burns and other injuries incident to the celebration of the Fourth, but only a few of these were at any time considered serious.

The safety report was made up of returns from 500 communities, and shows, for those places, a total of 111 killed and 1030 injured. Only 62 arrests are recorded. Of the 111 deaths, one-third, or 37, were due to burns caused by so-called harmless sparklers, other fireworks, and bonfires. Twenty-five deaths were caused by tetanus following powder burns; 19 persons were killed by premature explosions of various sorts; eight were killed by bullets and 22 died from accidents in the use of sky rockets, Roman candles and ordinary firecrackers, six very young children having been fatally poisoned by eating firecrackers.

The report is only a partial one, as figures were not obtained from 12 states, including some in which little or no legal restriction is placed on the sale and use of fireworks.

ST. LOUIS U. REGENT TO TALK AT CHICAGO CONFERENCE
Dr. A. M. Schwitalla, S. J., to Deliver Treatise on "Art of Stone Age and Evolution."

A treatise on "The Art of the Stone Age and Evolution" will be delivered by Dr. A. M. Schwitalla, S. J., regent of the St. Louis University Medical School, during the annual convention at Chicago, Aug. 17-23, of the Classical Association of the Missouri Province, the Missouri Province English Association, the American Jesuit Historical Association and the Missouri Province Library Association.

St. Louis University faculty representatives total 25, and will present scientific, medical and philosophical papers. Eleven other schools of the Jesuit order will be represented.

GERMAN EXPOSITIONS CANCELED

POLICE CHIEF KIDNAPED BY TRIO
Taken 12 Miles From Ridgeway, (Ill.) and Badly Beaten.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RIDGEWAY, Ill., Aug. 17.—Chief of Police Henry James, 35 years old, was kidnapped yesterday by three men in an automobile, who drove 12 miles from town and left him badly beaten. The trio escaped.

The three men were driving recklessly, James said, and he stopped them to search the car. James said he found two bottles of liquor when the men dragged him into the automobile. Witnesses organized a posse, summoning aid from Eldorado and Harrisburg for the pursuit. James was found in dense woods near the Ohio river.

FRENCH PEACE WITH DRUSES
Terms Said to Include Large Fine on Syrian Rebels.
By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Daily Mail's Jerusalem correspondent says it is reported that France has made peace with the Jebel Druses with whom the French have been fighting in Syria. The terms of the peace are not yet known, the correspondent adds, but are said to include the infliction of a large fine upon the Druses.

LA FOLLETTE UPHOLDS FATHER'S POLICIES

Favors Tax Relief on Incomes Below $3000 and Cut in Military Forces.

By the Associated Press.
MADISON, Wis., Aug. 17.—Robert M. La Follette, candidate for re-election at the Republican primary for the unexpired term of senator, yesterday pledged himself to continue Senator La Follette's policies.

La Follette said that he did not ask support because he was Senator La Follette's son, asserting that "at the same time relationship does not disqualify me." He declared he was "free from any deals or political entanglements."

"I am a candidate on the platform endorsed by the voters of Wisconsin three years ago when Robert M. La Follette was elected to his fourth term in the United States Senate. If I am chosen to fill out the unexpired term, I shall do all in my power to fulfill the pledges and carry out the program outlined in that platform."

"I believe long association with my father in his public service, intimate knowledge of his work in the past and his plans for the future—the policies involved, the issues at stake, together with years of contact with progressive leaders of cent and of public life, will, if I am elected to the Senate, enable me to keep the record straight and to render good service to the State of Wisconsin and the nation for the next three years."

La Follette's platform favored a policy of comprehensive conservation of the nation's resources. Government's operation of the National Railroad Law, Congressional action for the relief of agricultural products and "the things that farmers have to buy" and reductions in Federal taxes through curtailment of the $0 per cent of Government and future war expenditures also favored reduction of military forces to a strictly defensive basis, payment of the foreign debt, relief from taxation on incomes below $3000, repeal of special laws, inalienability of great estates, inalienability of the present activities of the Federal Trade Commission and constitutional amendments for direct nomination and election of President and Vice President.

EVIDENCE OF ANCIENT RACE FOUND IN TAHITI WILDERNESS

Scientists Hold That Temples Were Those of a People Dusted by Polynesians.

Representative of the Associated Press.
PAPEETE, Tahiti, July 15.—Scientists are studying evidences of a Polynesian race antedating any known today.
A representative of the Bishop Museum of Honolulu is making researches among the old Maras, or stone platform and pyramids, which served as temples and places of sacrifice in ancient times. These have been found in the interior of the island, now an uninhabited wilderness, but in former times evidently largely inhabited. Two of these Maras, recently found, are of a different type from the others on the inhabited islands of Polynesia. The only other places where this type of temple has been discovered are two desolate islands to the north of the Hawaiian group. Scientific opinion is inclined to hold that the rare form of Maras points to a migration of a race, driven inland by a conquering wave of Polynesians. Further investigation is under way, with a view of determining the character of the lost race.

ROAD SIGNS FOUND IN ENGLAND

Roman with "Social and Highway Line" Would Tour Europe.

LONDON, England, July 22.—Quaint and circumstantial evidence of English public signs contributes much to the average American's pleasure in seeing London. Most curious of all (to Americans) odd is probably that which hangs over a small water tap and bowl in the British museum wash-room reading: "This basin is for casual visitors only." Another was printed neatly below a window facing a street and read: "It is respectfully requested that gentlemen may not place their bicycles against this wall." On the other hand, however, the following advertisement appeared recently in the personal column of the Morning Post: "Oxford undergraduate (Etonian), much traveled, throws both social and highway line, would conduct Americans round England or continent during long vacation. Evidently the American language is making its way in some parts of England."

ROYAL AERO CLUB'S PILOTS

LONDON, July 23.—It has been decided to send Henri Baird and Robert Broad to America to represent the Royal Aero Club as pilots in the Schneider Cup race at Baltimore in October. Baird will fly a Supermarine-Napier monoplane and Broad a Blower III biplane.
As a result of recent tests it has been decided to fit Broad's machine with metal floats. On the action of speed, the makers of the British planes realize that America is aiming at fast machines and their efforts are also being concentrated on speed as well as

FOLLETTE UPHOLDS FATHER'S POLICIES
Favors Tax Relief on Incomes
Below $3000 and Cut in Military Forces.

From the Associated Press.
MADISON, Wis., Aug. 17.—Robt. M. La Follette, candidate for re-election to the Wisconsin legislature, yesterday pledged to continue Senator La Follette's policies.
La Follette said that he did not believe in the "tax cut" because it was a "tax cut" for the rich. He declared that he was "free from any deals or political entanglements."
"I am a candidate on the platform of the voters of Wisconsin," he said. "I believe in the long association with my father in his public service, and the policies involved, the past and his plans for the future—the policies involved, the past and his plans for the future—the policies involved, the past and his plans for the future."
La Follette's platform favored a "policy of comprehensive conservation" of the nation's resources. Government's operation of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, repeal of the Esch-Cummings railroad law, Congressional action for the relief of agriculture, reduction of freight rates on agricultural products and "the other things that farmers have to buy" and reductions in Federal taxes through curtailment of the 80 percent of Government revenues now expended for past and future wars.
The candidate also favored reduction of military forces to a strictly defensive basis, payment of the foreign debt, relief from taxation on incomes below $3000, repeal of special war taxes, "equitable" taxation of great estates, investigation of the Federal Trade Commission and constitutional amendments for direct nomination and election of President and Vice President.

The entire ground floor of the municipal festival hall is to be transformed into a huge vault of wine samples.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Additional supplies were deposited at an intermediate base on Ellesmere Island yesterday by two airplanes of the MacMillan Arctic expedition in a flight from Etah, Greenland, the main base.

Two messages from the MacMillan Arctic party yesterday told the Navy Department of a battle of the expedition's air unit to establish an expedition's operating base at Foulke Fjord in Ellesmere Island.

They related how the navy planes at last had located open water there only to return a short time later to find this water clogged with ice. A brief description also was given of the ice-damaged by ice several days ago, was being repaired on the deck of the Peary and would be ready for service within a short while.

Means by which the MacMillan Arctic expedition keeps in touch daily with civilization and how through a two-way service over the navy radio system, the public is informed of its adventures, hardships and successes were described today by the Navy Department.

A Perfect Link.
"Through the navy's radio communication system," said the statement, a perfect link in communications has been completed between the MacMillan Arctic expedition and the United States. The navy station at Bellevue, D. C. has completed and is using daily two-way communications with the S. S. Rowden.

Prior to the departure of the expedition schedule was arranged with the S. S. Peary and S. S. Rowden on high frequencies. The schedules were to be effective after the expedition left Boston but due to sea sickness of the expedition's operators, their unfamiliarity with the necessity of keeping strictly to schedule times, and the first difficulty of getting the expedition sets whipped into shape, communication was not established until after the expedition left Nova Scotia.

High Frequency Used.
"After that time the Bar Harbor, Me., navy radio station copied the expedition's high frequency messages until July 21, forwarding navy department and National Geographic Society traffic to Washington, where it was released to the press. Then the Navy Department using the Bellevue 71.5 meter set broadcast traffic for the expedition daily at 12:30 p. m.

LABOR TO ATTACK TEXTILE TARIFF

A. F. L. President Says Duties Should Be Repealed Unless Wages Are Restored.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 40-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The American Federation of Labor, through its president, William Green, gave notice today to textile manufacturers who are reducing wages that Congress will be asked to lower the tariff schedules on their products.

This position, as stated in a letter to M. G. Pierce, president of the American Woolen Co., is that if labor is to receive less pay, then the protection on cotton and woolen goods must come off.

Green said the textile manufacturers should be "deprived of special privilege and special benefits which they have enjoyed from high protection."

"The Government in all fairness should reduce the tariff schedules and tear down the tariff wall which has been so skillfully built," he added.

If wages are not restored in the New England textile industries, Green declared, he will bring the matter to the attention of Congress.

"We've Something to People"

"Corporation," he said, "which enjoy the protection of the law and the Government, especially those that are the beneficiaries of the high protective tariff, must remember that they owe something to the Government and the people who make up the government. Certainly Congress cannot close its eyes to the facts which have developed in the textile manufacturing industry."

Green's letter continues:

"The textile manufacturers of New England insisted that they be made the beneficiaries of a high protective tariff. They demanded of Congress a tariff schedule which would protect absolutely the goods manufactured in the textile industry from competition from Europe. They alleged such protection was necessary in order that they might pay high wages to their employees. So being the repeated reductions in wages of the textile workers there looms like a ghost the notorious schedule K. The remarkable feature of this schedule K is the fact that the principle features embodied in schedule K were first fastened upon the people of the United States in 1866.

Surrender of Congress

"In that year efforts were being made to pass a tariff bill. The textile manufacturers refused to permit its passage until their demands were complied with. Senator Sherman went into the caucus of the members of the party and said: 'Here is the tariff demanded by the textile manufacturers. If you do not give it to them they are strong enough to prevent any tariff bill being passed.'"

"Congress surrendered. From that day until the present time charges have been made while different tariff measures have been considered that every citizen who handled the textile schedule received the rates from the manufacturers and embodied them in the law without serious question."

BEWARE OF 'GREEK GIFTS'

STINNES EMPLOYEES ARE TOLD Socialist Organ Questions Motives of Financier's Son in Motor Works Renus.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—"Beware of Greek gifts," is the advice given employees of the Stinnes motor works by Vorwarts, the socialist organ, which is inclined to doubt the motives of Edmund Stinnes, eldest son of the late Hugo Stinnes, in giving the employees of the Aga Motor Works 2,000,000 marks worth of the shares of the concern.

The stock was assigned to have been given out as an earnest of his desire to keep the plant going and of his wish to relieve the present situation by dispensing with his majority stock holdings.

Just why Edmund Stinnes did so with the stock to raise the necessary cash to cover overdue payroll and incidentally ease the paying of Vorwarts is one of the doubts of Vorwarts.

The paper views the procedure as a stratagem aimed at the banks rather than as a bit of idealism or a step in the direction of socializing the plant.

Until some of these scruples are explained away, Vorwarts believes the workers' council should make haste slowly with regard to acceptance of the stock.

Bankers have not been slow to parry the move of Stinnes. They have issued a communication explaining why four prominent bankers resigned from the Executive Board of the Aga Motor Works after the plant was given to Edmund Stinnes in connection with a settlement with his mother and his younger brothers. The bankers announce that the business capacity and commercial training of Stinnes were of such caliber that they could not afford to subordinate themselves to his direction.

The company's balance sheet also is declared to show a heavy deficit. This is assigned as the reason why the banks are withholding credit from Stinnes.

Jesse James Murdered by Bob Ford at His Home in St. Joseph—Bob and His Brother Charlie Had Waited for a Year to Kill Jesse When His Back Was Turned.

CHAPTER XXXI.

NEWSPAPERS had not developed, as early as 1882, what is known in journalistic terminology as "scares." Undoubtedly that accounts for the fact that the St. Joseph Gazette of the morning of April 4, that year, carried but a single column heading above the biggest news story that ever broke from the city since that sprightly metropolis of Northwest Missouri. To be sure, the top line was set in the boldest-faced type that would fit between the column rules, no room being left for the exclamations which, in that phraseology demanded. The line ran, leaping, with truly Jesse Jamesish alliteration:

JESSE, BY JEHOVAH.

Following this shriek of apparent exultation were five three-line decks, and surely the occasion justified the headline's prodigality. We run the decks together here: "Jesse James, the Notorious Outlaw, Instantly Killed by Robert Ford—His Adventurous Career Brought to an Abrupt Close on the Eve of Another Crime—Ford Gets Into His Confidence and Shoots Him From Behind While His Back Was Turned—Jesse a Resident of St. Joseph Since the Eighth of November Last—An Interview with Mrs. James and the Testimony Developed Before a Jury."

The Gazette's seven-column account of the assassination and the subsequent proceedings began:

"Between 8 and 9 o'clock yesterday morning Jesse James, the Missouri outlaw, before whom the deeds of the great desperadoes and Schindlerhannees dwindled into insignificance, was instantly killed by a boy 20 years old, named Robert Ford, at his temporary residence on the corner of Thirteenth and Lafayette streets, in this city."

"In the light of all moral reasoning the shooting was unjustifiable; but the law is vindicated, and the $10,000 reward offered by the State for the body of the brigand will doubtless go to the man who had the courage to draw a revolver on the notorious outlaw even when his back was turned, as in this case."

The St. Joseph Evening News of April 3, of course, his first whack at the huge tale, its headlines being:

"Judgment for Jesse—The Notorious Bandit at Last Meets His Fate and Dies With His Boots On."

Premeditated Murder.

The Kansas City Journal had room for the exclamation point in its top line: "Good-Bye, Jesse!" Much of the Gazette story was wired verbatim to the Journal, from the files of which newspaper these passages are copied, the date line being St. Joseph, Mo., April 3.

"There is little doubt that the killing was the result of a premeditated plan formed by Robert and Charles Ford several months ago. Charles had been an accomplice of Jesse James since the third of last November, and entirely possessed his confidence. Robert Ford, his brother, joined Jesse near Mrs. Samuel's (the mother of the James boys) last Friday a week ago and accompanied Jesse and Charles to this city Sunday, March 25."

"Jesse, his wife and son, were removed from Kansas City—where they had lived several months, until they feared their whereabouts would be suspected—to this city, arriving here Nov. 8, 1881, coming by a wagon and accompanied by Charles Ford. They rented a house on the corner of Lafayette and Twenty-first streets, where they stayed two months, when they secured the house No. 1381 on Lafayette street, formerly the property of the Countess of Arundel, paying $14 a month for it, and giving the name of Thomas Howard."

"The house is a one-story cottage, painted white, with green shutters, and is romantically situated on the brow of a lofty eminence, and is the finest building in the city, river and railroad, and adapted by nature for the perilous and desperate calling of Jesse James. Just east of the house is a deep gulch, the ravine, and beyond that a broad expanse of open country backed by a belt of timber. The house, except from the west side, can be seen for several miles. There is a large yard attached to the cottage, and a stable where Jesse had been keeping two horses, which were found there this morning."

"Charles and Robert Ford had been occupying one of the rooms

A UNIQUE CHAPTER OF AMERICAN HISTORY

"The Rise and Fall of Jesse James"

By ROBERTUS LOVE

The assassination of Jesse James by Robert and Charles Ford, April 3, 1882. From a contemporary print.

In the rear of the dwelling, and have secretly had an understanding to kill Jesse ever since last fall. Ever since the boys had been with Jesse they have watched for an opportunity to shoot him, but he was always so heavily armed that it was impossible to draw a weapon without being seen. They declared that they had the idea of taking him alive, considering the undertaking suicidal.

"The opportunity they had long wished for came this morning. Jesse James, who had been in the stable currying the horses preparatory to their night ride. On returning to the room where Robert Ford was, Jesse said:

The End of Jesse James.

"It's an awfully hot day."

"He pulled off his coat and vest and tossed them on the bed. Then he said:

"I guess I'll take off my pistols, for fear somebody will see them if I walk in the yard."

"He unbuckled the belt in which he carried two 45 caliber revolvers, one a Smith & Wesson and the other a Colt, and laid them on the bed. He then went to the closet and took out a dusting brush with the intention of dusting some pictures which hung on the wall. To do this he got on a chair. His back was now turned to the two brothers, who silently stepped between Jesse and his revolvers.

"At a motion from Charles both drew their guns. Robert was the quicker of the two, and in one motion he had the long weapon to a level with his eye, and with the muzzle as if to turn his head to ascertain the cause of that suspicious sound, but too late. A nervous pressure on the trigger, a quick flash, a sharp report and the well-directed ball crashed through the outlaw's skull.

"There was no outcry—just a swishing of the body and a fall heavily backward upon the carpet of the floor. The shot had been fatal, and all the bullets in the chambers of Charles's revolver, still directed at Jesse's head, could not more effectively have done the fatal deed than the first shot. The fact that the bullet had entered the base of the skull and made its way out through the forehead, over the left eye, had been noted out of a Colt's 45, improved pattern, silver-mounted and pearl-handled pistol, presented by the dead man to his slayer only a few days ago.

Died in Wife's Arms.

"Mrs. James was in the kitchen when the shooting was done, separated from the room in which the bloody tragedy occurred by the dining room. She heard the shot and dropping her household duties, ran into the front room. She saw her husband lying extended on his back, his slayers, each holding his revolver in his hand, making for the fence in the rear of the house. Robert had reached the enclosure and was in the act of scaling it when she stepped to the door and called to him:

"Robert, you have done this! Come back!"

"Robert answered, 'I swear to God I didn't!'"

"They then returned to where she stood. Mrs. James ran to the side of her husband and lifted his head. Life was not yet extinct, and when she asked him if he was hurt he said that he was not hurt to any thing, but could not see. She tried to wash the blood away from the hole in his forehead, but it seemed to her that the blood would come faster than she could

RATES OF LARGE UTILITY FIRMS TO BE INVESTIGATED

State Public Service Commission to Take Up Matters to Determine if Cuts Are Justifiable.

WORK TO BEGIN DURING PRESENT YEAR

Union Electric Light and Power Co. Probably Will Be Only St. Louis Concern Affected.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 17.—An investigation of the reasonableness of the rates charged by some of the larger public utility companies of the State will be instituted by the State Public Service Commission before the end of this year, including the Union Electric Light & Power Co., of St. Louis, it was learned today, to determine whether reductions in their rates would be justified.

The Union Electric Light & Power Co. probably will be the only St. Louis utility included. Chairman Brown said today. Business telephone rates of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., in St. Louis were increased by the commission last June for a test period of 13 months. Rates of the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis are involved in a valuation proceeding now pending before the commission.

Status of United Railways.

Financial affairs of the United Railways Co., of St. Louis again will come before the commission whenever a final move is made in the pending reorganization of the company. Rumors of a possible move of the company to seek higher fares, because of motor bus competition in St. Louis, have reached the commission. However, action of this nature, if instituted at all, is not expected by the commission until after the reorganization is completed. The commission in June, 1922, placed a valuation of $51,781,548 on properties of the United Railways, as a basis for the present seven-cent fare.

Among other companies whose rates will be looked into is the Kansas City Light & Power Co., and several companies in the State which operate chains of public utility plants in a number of towns.

Brown said consideration of the Union Electric rates probably would be deferred a few months in order to obtain more complete operating data on an electric transmission line erected by the company to supply power to electric plants at Crystal City. This line was erected at heavy expense, and complete data on normal experience in the operation of the line is desired by the commission before rates are considered.

Extension Program a Factor.

The Union Electric has a large improvement and extension program under way which would add considerably to its plant valuation. This factor would have to be considered by the commission in looking into reasonableness of the rates.

In its report for 1922 operations to the Public Service Commission the Union Electric showed earnings of 7.1 per cent on its property in Missouri after deduction of depreciation and other charges. This was based on the company's claim of a valuation of approximately $47,000,000. The return rate for the company was reduced to $10.00 per cent on the sale of electrical appliances which the company contends is not under control of the commission. If these profits were included by the commission in determining earnings, the return for 1922 would be approximately 9 per cent.

Laclede Valuation Under Way.

Valuation of the property of the Laclede Gas Light Co. has been in progress about two years. Progress has been slow because of the commission's small force of engineers. The book valuation by the commission's accountants was completed in April, 1924, and the actual investment value of the plant placed at $30,725,128, as of Dec. 31, 1923. This figure would be increased somewhat by plant additions later and application of the reproduction cost factor which the courts have held must be used in utility valuations. The physical appraisal still in progress and probably will be completed in a month or two. The Laclede company also has a large improvement program under way.

The Laclede company in its 1924 report showed a return of 7.94 per cent on the book valuation of $42,650,217 claimed by the company, but on the tentative valuation of approximately $22,000,000 fixed by the commission pending completion of the valuation, the return for 1923 was 10.31 per cent, as of Dec. 31, 1924.

ONE has to be in just the right frame of mind to enjoy "Beggars on Horseback" at the Metropolitan Theater. If you like it you will think it great and if you don't, well, you'll spend a very tiresome hour looking at the screen. "Beggars on Horseback" is a fantastic, or rather a grotesque satire on the new rich told in the form of the dream of a poor young musician who imagines he has married the daughter of a multimillionaire. What he goes through in the accompaniment of jazz music and the jingling of dollars is really funny to those who grasp the humor of the situations but the average picture fan—the drug-store cowboy and their girl friends—will never find out what it's all about. It is delightfully played by a cast new to the screen or at least to leading parts and the production and direction is all that could be wished for but it will appeal only to a certain selected and select class of picture goers and will furnish no amusement or entertainment for fully 90 per cent of its audiences. "Beggars on Horseback" will be taken off after tomorrow night to make way, on Wednesday, for "The Ten Commandments" which comes in for a "day's" stay. "The Ten Commandments" played at a downtown theater at advanced prices about a year ago and is a picture of unusual merit. Just how good it is, what a wonderful cast it has and how thrillingly the story has been told can be gathered from the following excerpts taken from the advance advertising announcements:

Fifteen tons of modeling clay, 100 tons of plaster, 550,000 feet of lumber, 25,000 pounds of nails and 75 miles of cable and wire were used in building the immense sets. Sixteen miles of cloth were used to make 2000 costumes. Three tons of leather, made into 250 sets of Egyptian chariot harness. Ten tons of hay were required to feed 900 horses, 200 burros, 50 camels, 100 sheep and 1000 cattle. The name of the film which did so much for the Dea Sea was not mentioned but no doubt it was one of the best. Also there are some actors in the production and it is rather important to know that 25,000 pounds of nails were used to build the scenery together. Placed end to end they would surround the set in a circle for several hours in passing a given point.

The Gish Girls Are Back.

ROMOLA, George Eliot's powerful romance of fifteenth century Florence has been significantly and stupendously reproduced for the screen, and is on show at Loew's State this week. I don't recall having seen a better made picture from a purely pictorial standpoint but there are times when the story drags and the film goes on for so long that even the beauty of the settings gets tiresome. There is one scene also which should be eliminated from the picture entirely. That is the close-up shots of the hanging and burning of the monk Savonarola. To picture the street at close range is revolting and unnecessary. Lillian and Dorothy Gish, who have not been together in a picture since "Orphans of the Storm," are seen as Romola and the two wives of the monk. The Helena and Ronald Chalmers in the faithful Carlo. The picture was made in and around Florence and every attention has been paid to accuracy. The story follows closely George Eliot's work, too closely in fact for hard core of the story been left out, as could have been done, far as moving play would have resulted.

Old Folks at Home.

"SIEGE" at the Kings and Rivoli is an excellent movie made from Samuel Hopkins Adams' fine story. It tells an interesting story of the battle between a 1925 model bride and the old-fashioned relatives of her husband. The picture is well made and well played by Virginia Valli and Eugene O'Brien. At the Kings and Rivoli, Le Roy does an Ana Eva play mind reading stunt.

The Old Standby.

ONE of the best of the earlier motion pictures made, "The Miracle Man"—and it still ranks as screen entertainment—is being re-released at the Delmonte. This is the film which established Lon Chaney as a picture actor and helped to make the reputation of the Delmonte and Betty Compton. Chaney's "Miracle Man" is "Unholy Wives" with Mildred Harris as the star. The best time to leave the theater is immediately after the showing of "The Miracle Man."

Knocking 'Em Cold.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS in "Don Quixote" holds the screen at the Central Skydome and Capitol. It will remain at two of the houses all through this week, but will be succeeded at the Skydome on Wednesday by "The Boomer."

CHINESE GUARDS AND CADETS CLASH IN CANTON AREA

Fresh Disorders Have Broken Out at Sekki, Dispatch to London States—Firing Reported.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES STRIKE AT SHANGHAI

Elimination of Foreigners
From Mail Service and Substantial Wage Increase Among the Demands.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 17.—An Exchange Telegraph Agency from Hong Kong reports that disorders have broken out at Sekki, near Canton, where Chinese civil guards fired on a group of Whampoa cadets. The cadets immediately returned the fire. Further details are lacking.

Canton authorities are attempting to restore trade by facilitating the return of foreigners to the city and undertaking to guarantee their safety.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Aug. 17.—A demand that no foreigners be employed in the Shanghai postoffice after 1926 has been made by the 2200 postal employees who struck yesterday. The strikers, including clerks, porters, delivery postmen and coolies, also demand a substantial increase in wages and better working conditions.

The chairman of a meeting of the general labor union announced that the agreement signed on Aug.
8, providing for a resumption of work in the Japanese cotton mills here, has not satisfied the workers and that the mill hands will not return to work unless they are granted a 10 per cent wage increase and are paid one-third of the strike pay which their leaders promised them.

The postoffice at Shanghai, although it has been under the control of the Chinese Government since 1923, when foreign postoffices were abolished in accordance with the decision of the Washington conference, still has a number of American and other foreign employees.

ASHES OF AN ATTORNEY STREWN INTO MISSISSIPPI
Action in Compliance With Clause
in Will of Adolph Abbey, Wealthy Bachelor.

The ashes of Adolph Abbey, an attorney, who died two months ago, were strewn into the Mississippi River from the Municipal Bridge yesterday by Attorney Julius J. Fuchs.

This was in compliance with a clause in Abbey's will directing that his body be so disposed of after cremation. He was a bachelor and left the bulk of his estate, valued at $128,804, to his sister, Mrs. Mary Phillips. Fuchs was appointed executor of the will. Abbey was 47 years old. He lived at the Bransome Apartment Hotel, 5270 Pershing avenue.

A week ago yesterday similar disposition was made of the ashes of Charles J. Miller, 3714 South

Jefferson avenue, a carpenter, who died Aug. 5. He also requested in his will that his body be cremated and the ashes strewn from the Municipal Bridge. A daughter, Mrs. William Alverson, carried out the request.

WISCONSIN PROFESSOR WON'T ACCEPT NORWEGIAN HONOR

"Humbug," Says Rasmus Ander-

bership in High Order.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MADISON, Wis., Aug. 17.—A message carrying a refusal of the highest order of the realm, the Order of Olaf, has been forwarded to King Haakon VI of Norway by Rasmus A. Anderson, professor emeritus of the University of Wisconsin, historian, writer, diplomat and editor.

Prof. Anderson this week received a message from King Haakon, asking if he would accept the order if it should be offered him.
A letter declining the honor was immediately sent on its way to Nor-

The professor explained his action by recalling his action in declining the Cross of Danneburg, which King Christian of Denmark sought to bestow upon him following his completion of the Norwegian histories "Reinskringla."

"I don't believe in it. Decorations said.

NINE WOUNDED IN FASCIST-SOCIALIST FIGHT AT NEWARK

Police Reserves Called Out to Stop Battle in Which Several Hundred at Meeting Engage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 17.—All available police reserves of six precincts in Newark, supplemented by motor cycles and traffic policemen, were called out to end a battle between Fascist sympathizers and members of the Italian Socialist Labor party yesterday. When the reserves, led by Acting Chief McReel, reached Laurel Garden, several hundred Italians were fighting. Three, including Alfred Coniglio, Fascist organizer of New York, had been shot. Six others had been stabbed. Six police rushed the crowd and took nearly 50 men to Newark police headquarters for questioning. Constantino Vonnacello, former Italian Deputy from Sicily and a leader of the Socialist Labor group, told police the meeting, called to denounce "high-handed" methods of the Italian Fascists and Premier Mussolini, had been orderly until 40 or 50 members of the Fascist League of America, led by Ignatius Di Revel, New York organizer, entered the hall. Instantly came cries of "Throw them out." A shot was fired. Coniglio was struck on the left forearm by a bullet. Knives flashed and two policemen, sent to the hall to keep order, found themselves powerless. As the battle began one of them telephoned for the reserves. Newark members of the Fascist League told police they had attended the meeting to debate with speakers of the other party, but they admitted they had not been invited.

REVOLT URGED BY OFFICIAL OF BRITISH MINE FEDERATION
Realizing Power, He Declares for Revolution "With Cause of Humanity As Its Goal."
By the Associated Press.
PONTYPRIDD, Wales, Aug. 17.—If the British coal crisis had resulted in a strike recently it would have meant revolution, declared A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, addressing an enthusiastic and overflowing audience here today.

"I realize now the power we have," said Cook. "Revolution will come. I want a revolution that will have a disciplined army behind it—a revolution that will not only have discipline, but will be organized with an object ahead of it, a revolution that will have the cause of humanity as its goal; a revolution where the mentality of the people will be free from the terrible curses of criticism and apathy."

Negro Murdered, Wife Missing.
William Lane, a negro, 39 years old, was found murdered in his room at a negro lodging house at 109 S. 24th street, at 8 a. m. today. There was a long cut in his throat, three cuts on the side of his head and one on his left arm, while a broken jug and a sharp knife were near the body. The proprietor of the house said the last he had seen of Lane and his wife, who came there two weeks ago, was on Saturday. The wife was not found today.

Morgan, wife of the financier, who died Friday after a long illness of sleeping sickness. Less than 200 persons, all relatives of Mrs. Morgan, were to attend the funeral, but many others began arriving this morning. The services were to be private. The funeral service of the Episcopal Church will be read by Mrs. Morgan's favorite hymns played on the organ in the little church of St. John of Litteran, which has new space for only 170 persons. Flags in the town were at half mast, as were those of all the yachts here for the race of the New York Yacht Club. The race was to have been held today but was canceled out of respect for Mrs. Morgan.

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drug store.

BROWNS AT HOME AFTER LOSING TEN OF 17 GAMES ON THE ROAD

Athletics Open Series Here Tomorrow; Indians Overcome Five-Run Lead

Vangilder Is Effective for Five Frames, but Is Knocked Out in Sixth—Gaston Relieves Him and Is Charged With Defeat—Myatt Leads in Cleveland Attack.

George Sialer and his Browns, who, after a sensational stand at Sportsman's Park during July, went on the road and lost 10 out of 17 games, are back home and will open a series with the league-leading Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow afternoon. Today is an open date.

The Athletics will play here tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, and then the Boston Red Sox will call for a four-day stay. Washington will be here Aug. 28, 29 and 30. Chicago will be the last team on the list of callers, finishing a three-day series Sept. 6, after which the Browns jump to Detroit for two games on Labor day.

On the trip which concluded yesterday the Browns lost three straight to the Yankees and then won three in a row from the Boston Sox. At Washington Sialer's men won only one out of four games, and they took the series final at Philadelphia for their only triumph in four games. In Cleveland they won two out of three.

Up to yesterday, the St. Louis contingent had won 11 of the 21 skirmishes with the Indians. So, after spotting the Sialerites five runs, four of the number the result of mistakes in the field, the Tebbesman set themselves the task of overthrowing them. And they did just that. They scored four runs in the sixth, knotted the score in the eighth and grabbed the bacon, 7 to 6, in their half of the ninth without a single man being on the retired list.

Garland Buckeye, 249-pound southpaw heaver, started on the hill for the Indians. His teammates could not give him any kind of support, and then, too, the Browns busted his stuff ever and anon. So Manager Speaker replaced him with Bert Cole, formerly of Detroit, and also a left-hander. Bert proved too wild to last, so "Fris" had to finally shift to a right-hander in the person of George Vangilder. This change proved to be every bit as effective as the one before, besides, his teammates backed him up with flawless support, nary a Brownie reaching first against him, and he pitched to seven of them.

Vangilder knocked out Elam Vangilder was on the firing line for the invaders and looked the part of ready money for five innings, but once the Indians got the range on his line of goods they made life miserable for him.

Stuckman Meets Wright in Final For County Title

McMillan Forces Stuckman to Five Sets in Semifinal Round.

By Davison Obeart.
Forest Stuckman, the Triple A player, reached the final round of the St. Louis County tennis championship by defeating Charles McMillan of the Oakland club, in a semifinal round match at the Kirkwood Country Club yesterday afternoon. The complete score was 7-5, 1-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

The contest between Stuckman and McMillan was easily the feature of the day's play and brought out some very consistent tennis on the part of both players. As the score indicates, the match was hard fought, the winner being in doubt until the fifth set, when Stuckman gained a commanding lead.

Stuckman won the opening set, due to steadier playing. McMillan walked away with the second set, due to his net playing, and Stuckman's errors. In the third set, Stuckman reversed things, winning it by the same game score and by the same number of points made by McMillan in the second set.

In the fourth set McMillan mixed the pace somewhat, while Stuckman appeared tired at the start. McMillan ran up a lead of 5 to 1 when Stuckman became more accurate and surprised by taking four straight games. McMillan almost lost the tenth game, but won it and the set after Stuckman had the advantage point twice.

McMillan was not so accurate in the fifth set. Stuckman had his service under better control. He changed his service a little in the set, passing McMillan at the net by putting more speed on the balls. This was effective, as he soon took the set, 6-2, and the match.

Wright Eliminates Metcalfe. In the other semifinal round of the men's singles, Fred Wright of the leading Kirkwood Club player, eliminated Robert Metcalfe, former county champion, in straight sets. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Wright surprised by winning from Metcalfe so easily. In the first set the score went to 4-11 after that Wright kept a safe lead. The Kirkwood club player broke up Metcalfe's net attacks consistently by quick top spin.

Stuckman and Wright met in the final of the men's singles next Saturday afternoon. It will be the fourth time in the past six years that the two have met in the final round of the county championship.

Third Round Saturday. All of the second round matches in the men's doubles, except one, were decided yesterday afternoon. The third round contests will be played next Saturday.

In the feature of yesterday's doubles the father and son team of Herbert Harford and Carl Harford surprised by defeating Andrew B. Lynn and Robert Metcalfe. The contest went the limit of three sets, Harford and Harford winning, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

SEMI-FINAL ROUND—Forest Stuckman defeated Charles McMillan, 7-5, 1-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. Wright defeated Robert Metcalfe, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Norton Wins in Second Round of Newport Tourney

St. Louisan Defeats Boston Player in Three Sets—Johnston Is Victor.

By the Associated Press.
NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—William M. Johnston of San Francisco, defending champion in the annual invitation tournament of the Newport Tennis Association, eliminated Louis B. Dailey Jr. of New York, former Princeton tennis captain, 6-4, 6-2 in the opening match of the tournament today.

The youthful New Yorker gave his distinguished rival a battle in the first set, games going with service until Johnston broke through Dailey's service in the tenth game to win the set. It was a second round match, both drawing in the first round.

William J. Johnston of Philadelphia, national champion in 1906, was another second round victor, defeating St. Reynold Krynall Jr. of Newport, 6-0, 6-1.

Louis N. White of the University of Texas won his second round match, defeating Kenneth Appel of Orange, N. J., former national indoor junior title holder, 6-1, 6-3.

Brian Norton of St. Louis defeated J. Wheelwright in the second round.

England's threat came through safely in their opening matches. James H. Van Allen and H. K. Lester, members of the Oxford-Cambridge team, defeating American rivals, Lester eliminated John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., in a match which went three sets, while Van Allen halted the play of Eddie Herndon, former Princeton athlete.

Claude Butlin, singles champion of Mexico, and a member of the Mexican Davis Cup team, bowed to St. Howard Voshell of New Gardens, N. Y., in a sensational match, 6-3, 6-4.

At the same time Lester was flashy in spots but erratic in the pinches. The summaries:

Perry L. Kynaston, Rockville Center, N. Y., defeated D. J. Sumner, England, 6-0, 6-2.

Morse Medalist In Park Tour

16-Year Old Caddie Leads Field With 75—First Round Matches This Week

Match play will be started this week in the Municipal golf championship tournament with round contests scheduled to be completed by Sunday. The 16-year-old caddie, who recently graduated from the caddie ranks, carried medal honors with his score of 75. The caddie, who is named as Lawrence Schuetz and Dr. L. Davis tied for second with 77. Morse will play Bobby Held of the first round.

Scores of 88 and better qualify for the championship class. Those of all those who completed the hole qualifying round. The hole qualifying round was made up of a number of small "farmers" roads which began and ended anywhere, but which, when connected, formed a line from Wayland Junction, N. Y., to Brookville, Pa., where connection is made with the Pittsburgh & Shawmut Road. The latter gives outlet east and west via its connections.

Defaulted on Bond Interest. In 1925 the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern defaulted the interest on its bond issues, one of which matures in 1949, and only a few bonds of which are outstanding. The other, amounting to $14,441,000 in refunding first gold 4s, matures Feb. 1, 1925.

When interest was defaulted the Central Union Trust Co. of New York applied for a receivership and Frank Sullivan Smith was appointed receiver. He held office until his death in November, 1925, and Henry S. Hastings was appointed in his stead. Hastings lived only until 1923 when John D. Dickson succeeded to the office.

One of the curious features of the receivership is that during all these years that the railroad has been in the hands of the courts no serious attempt has been made to form a plan of reorganization and to move for the discharge of the receivership has been promulgated.

Buried Deeper in Debt. As the interest on the debt of the company came due, receivers' certificates refunding the obligations were issued with the consent of the courts. These certificates have carried interest at the rate of 6 per cent and each refunding operation with its addition of interest and fixed charges has buried deeper the bonds of the original funded debt.

The last issue of receivers' certificates was issued in June, 1924, and matured in 1927. This issue takes up all the issues of receivers' certificates heretofore outstanding. A bondholders' committee was formed many years ago for the protection of holders of the first mortgage bonds and the refunding 4 per cent bonds. Most of the bonds of the holders deposited under direction of the committee. The committee, however, represents only a minority of the bondholders since the majority are pledged to the Pittsburgh and Shawmut Railroad as collateral.

Security Holders Satisfied. There is small doubt that the road has potentialities. If this were not so the holders would surely have taken action ere this instead of being content to draw their interest on the obligations of the road. It owns the capital stock of the Clarion River Railway Co., the Kersey Mining Co., the Shawmut Mining Co., the Shawmut Commercial Co., and the Kersey Railway. The carrier intersects the line of the Erie Road and taps extensive fields of bituminous coal.

The various plans of railroad consolidation have opened new vistas for many carriers. In Pennsylvania the projected building of the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad, backed by the estate of E. H. Harriman has given warning of vigorous competition among the Pennsylvania roads. It is possible that the Pittsburgh Shawmut and Northern may one day wake from its Rip Van Winkle sleep and find itself with its receivership discharged, a prosperous link in some great transportation system.

Soft Coal Production Increases. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Bituminous coal production during the last full week reported by the Bureau of Mines, which ended Aug. 8, amounted to 9,957,000 tons, compared with 9,456,000 during the preceding week, and 8,836,000 during the same week of 1924. The steady increase in production during the last two months have now brought the output to a figure higher than any since Feb. 7, the bureau disclosed, while the output is shown to be growing further in preliminary returns from car loadings during the week of Aug. 15. Anthracite production for the week ending Aug. 8 was 2,068,000 tons, 24.3 per cent more than the production for the same week last year, but a trifle less than the figure for the preceding week.

SAYS TRANSLATION OF GENESIS IS WRONG

Theologian Trace Religion's Evolution Clash to Misinterpretation of Two Words.

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—Much of the misunderstanding over religion and evolution is due to a misinterpretation of two Hebrew words of related meaning concerning the creation as told in Genesis. David L. Cooper of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Greenville, declared before the opening meeting of the fundamental Bible Conference here.

These Hebrew words are "Bara" and "Asa." The first meaning "to bring into being something that does not exist" and the second "to create with material at hand," according to the literal translation of the speaker, who claims to be a student of the Hebrew.

Prof. Cooper asserted that the first chapter of Genesis used the word "Bara" in connection with the assertion that "in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." In subsequent chapters of the book of Genesis, the compiler of the chapter uses the word "Asa" in connection with the creation of lower forms of life.

Prof. Cooper said. But in the sixth chapter of Genesis, the word "Bara" again appears in the original Hebrew text in connection with the creation of man whose God wished created in "Our own image," according to the speaker.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 17.—Raleigh V. Reese, newspaper reporter, selected to fill the place on the faculty of the Dayton, Tenn., high school made vacant when John T. Scopes failed of re-election, has issued emphatic denial that he had been subjected to any religious questionnaire before he was given the position.

Reese issued the denial following receipt of news that a charge to this effect had been made by Dr. John R. Neal, of counsel for Scopes in the recent evolution trial.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY NOT STAY MARRIED?

THERE is something awfully binding about the marriage-tie. It is full of knots—ought-nots, will-nots, shall-nots and what-nots—which you never discover until you try to unravel it.

Any normal woman can find forty knots binding her to marriage, to one lone end, which might encourage her to get a divorce.

Why? Oh well, BECAUSE—

Because marriage is a life-job, which she might not be able to duplicate at the same "salary," anywhere else.

Because she is a woman; and her code, her conscience and her natural instincts are all against the idea of deserting the man she has promised to love, honor and abide with.

Because she sees few husbands for whom she'd care to exchange her own, and few marriages that appear to have any more glamour or to be any nearer to perfection, than hers.

Because she has acquired that "married feeling" and she shudders when she visualizes herself as "Nobody's wife."

Because, in spite of her short skirts and her "facials," she suspects that middle-age is on the way, and knows that in this age of flappers, her chances of finding a Prince Charming are as slim and uncertain as a tea-room sandwich.

Because divorce is a major-operation—and it's going to be so hard to prove that her husband is a "brute," when she is really only weary of the way he chews his celery, grumbles about wiping the dishes, or picks on her at bridge.

Because her vanity and her pride won't let her admit herself a "failure" in marriage, the only job she has ever tried.

Because she is "used to that man," and the vision of beginning life all over again, ALONE—or of adjusting herself to another husband—gives her a cold chill.

Because breaking up your own home requires the callousness of an executioner and the courage of an executioner.

Because sweet, dead memories of a tender courtship and an ardent honeymoon, of all those early golden days together, arise and clutch at her heart.

Because home, somehow, doesn't seem like "Home," without a man to get breakfast for—and wait dinner for.

All these are reasons "why that woman goes on living with that man."

And "why that man goes on living with that woman" would probably sound like the same story.

What to Serve .. Tomorrow ..

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST By Aline Michaels

BREAKFAST.

Cantaloupe.
Cereal.
Poached eggs on toast.
Fried ham.
Coffee, Cocoa, Milk.

LUNCHEON.

Tuna fish salad.
Rice.
Tapioca pudding.
Coffee, Tea, Milk.

DINNER.

Baked pork chops.
Baked potatoes.
Baked, stuffed green peppers.
Pimento salad.
Apple sauce.
Cake.
Coffee, Tea, Milk.

Tuna Fish Salad.
Mince one small can of tuna fish, add one-half cup each of celery and cucumbers, and thoroughly moisten with good salad dressing. A little lemon juice is a good addition. Scoop the seeds from chilled tomatoes, fill with the fish and serve on lettuce.

Baked Potatoes.

Select potatoes having a smooth, unmarred surface. Wash perfectly clean, and let them drain. Put them in an old baking pan kept for this purpose—do not crowd them—and put in a hot oven. If the oven is large and hot and the potatoes of medium size, forty minutes will answer for the cooking. On the other hand, if the oven is filled with cold potatoes the temperature of the oven will be reduced quickly and it will require an hour to cook the potatoes. Baked potatoes should be served as soon as they are done. If they must be kept any time after the cooking is completed, break them in order that the moisture may escape. Keep them in a warm oven or covered with cheese cloth in a steamer.

POTATO CURLS.

Parse as many potatoes as are needed and let them stand an hour in cold water. Take a sharp knife and cut the potatoes as you would parse an apple, in spiral fashion around and around, not too thin. Dust the curls with salt after frying them in hot fat. These curls make an attractive garnish for meat dishes.

Spectacles for Shopping.

Speculative lenses of a peculiar glass have been invented by a French scientist to enable artists to photograph under artificial light without the glare of the light.

SOMETIMES.

DULL days, dull days, life is a humdrum thing brimming with labor the four years go, youth and its joys take wing. Striving daily after man's simple needs, here is no place for the valiant soul doing earth's shining deeds. Telling ever, so do the drab years pass, little of the glow of stars deep in the still lake's glass. Still we strangely find in a twilight hour, something of fragrance that hovers still over youth's drooping flower. Still through pale dawn the summer of romance creeps, stirring the beauty we thought had died, waking the past that sleeps. So through dull days patiently on we plod, warmed by the flame of life we sense under the cheerless cloud. For we, strangely live for life's songs and rhythms that, by the grace of the flying years, come to our souls sometimes.

Fried Cauliflower.

Select a firm head of cauliflower, and after trimming it well slice down in medium slices then stand in salted water for 20 minutes. When ready to cook, drain and dry between linen cloths. Then dip each piece into beaten egg, then into seasoned dry crumbs, and fry in very clear fat or oil. Drain and serve on a hot dish with a well-seasoned cream sauce poured over it, or with a good, snappy tartar sauce. Garnish with fresh parsley and lemon quarters.

LOVE

BUT after he had gone Christopher soon recovered from the exuberance of whisky, and went very sadly to bed. He missed Catherine terribly. The flat was the loneliest place without her. And what if something had happened to her, after all, in spite of Lewis' cold-blooded assurances that nearly always nothing happens to anybody? He didn't sleep much. He hated being alone in that dear room of happiness; and when at breakfast he got the telegram, as Lewis had foretold, saying she was coming by the first train, he determined to chuck the office and go to meet her.

Catherine, however, anxiously turning over every possibility, had thought that he might do this and at Chickover station, eluding Stephen, who was talking to a parishioner, sent a second telegram saying she wouldn't be back till later. Her one desire was to keep out of Christopher's sight till she had been to Maria Rome. Impossible to let him see her in the state she was in. Well did she know that this was being a slave, a silly slave, and that it was cruel to leave him all day wondering what was happening, but she was a slave, and this cruelty was nothing to the cruelty to them both of letting him meet her and see what she now looked like really. So she sent the second telegram.

Naturally, Christopher was extremely perturbed when he got it. What in damnation had happened in that beastly Chickover? Never again should she go there without him. Never again should she go away without him. And she hadn't taken any luggage with her, and she would be worn out. Blast Stephen. Blast that girl. And probably the bird-faced mother-in-law had had a hand in all this, too. If so, let her be specially and thoroughly blasted.

He looked up the trains and found that one arrived at 5.30, and there was no other till after 10. The 5.30 must be the one, then. He told Mrs. Mitcham, who had shown every symptom of astonishment and incredulity on getting to the flat that morning and finding her mistress hadn't returned, to have dinner ready earlier than usual because Mrs. Monckton would be badly needing food, and then he went to his office after all, intending to go to Waterloo to meet the 5.30.

What a day it was. He couldn't do a stroke of work. He felt like nothing on earth after the whisky. His chief was sarcastic. Everything started for Waterloo when Mrs. Mitcham rang him up to say her mistress was safely back and resting.

Safely back? How had she managed that, with no train that he knew of?

He flew home. Catherine, her face beautifully rearranged, was lying in the shaded drawing room. "Why, darling—how? When?" he cried, rushing across to her.

He didn't wait for an answer. There was no time for one before he had picked her up and locked her in his arms.

Oh, how blessed this was—oh, how blessed this was, sighed Catherine, her cheek against his, her eyes shut, safe in heaven again.

The great feature of Maria Rome's treatment was that it was husband-proof. Nothing came off. Catherine made much of Virginia's fainting. "What she wanted to faint for," asked Christopher skeptically. "A great girl like that?"

"Well, she did. So of course, I couldn't leave her sooner."

But when she was saying this sort of thing she felt uncomfortable. Such tiresome almost lying, such petty almost truth. She seemed now to walk continually in small deceptions. It was as though her feet couldn't move a step without getting into a tangle of repulsive little cobwebs.

Really, nothing more than she supposed most women, whom she began to think of as creatures necessarily on the defensive, had to wade through, but so different from the clean-swept path along which she had all her life till then proceeded. All her life? All her death. That hadn't been life. Up to her marriage with Christopher she had merely been dead. Now she was alive; and mustn't she take the stings and the pains and even the pettiness of life gladly in return for its beatitudes?

But they worried her, the stings and the pains and the pettiness. They forced her to go on forever to Maria Rome, and the offender she went the more she needed her. It was like drug-taking. And suppose there should come a point—in her heart she knew it must come—when Maria's ministrations would merely accentuate what they were intended to hide? Once or twice lately she had fancied they had been less successful, or was it that there was more to do to her the deeper she sank in this business of being young and happy? She led a racked life, an uneasy mixture of fears and bliss. And the gray in her hair seemed to multiply, and it, too, had to be treated by Maria Rome, and she began to look more and more like somebody else—somebody who was really the most unadventurous of perchance, clinging doves.

The thought of Virginia's life—Virginia, so young, so needing to do nothing to herself, so completely at ease with her elderly husband—made her sigh as the overhated and overloved sigh at the thought of cool shadows and clear waters. There was a difference, and it was simply all the difference in the world, between their two cases. She had been horribly right when at the beginning she snubbed Christopher for declaring there was no difference between them.

A husband cannot go on cooling after he has ceased to thrill, but he can go on very happily billing. Only mystery thrills, and only the unexplained is mysterious. It wasn't reasonable for the dear explored one to want still to be mysterious, for the so felicitously known to want still to be unknown. Catherine was the darlingest of a wife, and every night when he went to sleep with his arms round her he thanked God he had got her; but she was no longer mysterious; his heart would never give great choking bumps again when he came near her. Yet that it seemed, was what she wanted and expected. And she had a really remarkable love-memory, and never forgot a single love-love or love-or-love-vow or love-action of his, and had taken to comparing him with himself. Yet that it seemed, was what she wanted and expected. And she had a really remarkable love-memory, and never forgot a single love-love or love-or-love-vow or love-action of his, and had taken to comparing him with himself. Yet that it seemed, was what she wanted and expected. And she had a really remarkable love-memory, and never forgot a single love-love or love-or-love-vow or love-action of his, and had taken to comparing him with himself.

He told him this used to be his view, too. Was it? He couldn't remember, but didn't tell her he couldn't, for a certain amount of caution, highly unnatural to him, began to creep into what he said. The expression "used to be" seemed to recur rather a lot, he thought. He had heard tell of one's evil past dogging one's footsteps, but fancy being dogged by one's alleged satisfactory past, and having it shake its fist at one!

He told her this one morning, waking up in the jolly, careless mood when he would have tickled a tiger; but she only looked thoughtfully at him and said he never used to talk like that.

What a frightened, nery little thing she was. What was she frightened of? He couldn't imagine.

What he now wanted, thought

Christopher, reflecting on these things, was to lead a happy, healthy, love-making life, in which all the speeches were taken for granted. Was that out of the way at all? Didn't married people inevitably get into this condition after a bit? He supposed that the difference between himself and Catherine—he hated to admit there could be such a thing—was their several attitudes toward billing and cooling. He wanted—and he imagined most husbands at last wanted—to bill without cooling, and she wouldn't be happy in any billing that hadn't been preceded by cool. Loud coos, too, loud and long ones.

Well, no man can cool forever. Christopher was convinced of that. Not with spontaneity, anyhow. He tried to once or twice just to please her, but she instantly found him out and was tremendously upset. He then tried to laugh about it and tease her; but she wouldn't laugh and he teased. She took everything that had to do with love very seriously. Her view was that love was like God and couldn't be joked about without profanity.

Lotions to Beautify Arms By LUCREZIA BORI

BEAUTIFUL arms are lively in themselves, and are also the indications of a beautifully developed body.

There is a saying that the symmetry and beauty of a woman's arms can be taken as an indication of the symmetry and beauty of her body. Now, it is true that the woman who keeps her body evenly developed will have beautiful arms as well as beautiful shoulders and legs and a good chest development.

In these days of athletics for women, we see very few normal healthy persons who suffer from scrawny, thin, undeveloped arms. It is also true that practically none of the exercises indulged in by women are strenuous enough to overdevelop the arms, so the modern, active woman has nothing to fear in the way of knotty muscles. The woman who swims in the summer sunshine, or who plays tennis, will, of course, give her arms plenty of good, wholesome exercise. She will also have to expose them to the sun and air, and she will find that they show the effects of the exposure.

Christopher, reflecting on these things, was to lead a happy, healthy, love-making life, in which all the speeches were taken for granted. Was that out of the way at all? To my way of thinking, a tanned or freckled arm is by no means a beauty drawback. Many people prefer this type to the extremely white arm, which shows that it has been protected from all exposure to the elements. Therefore, I advise you to think more of the healthy exercise you are giving your arms when you swim and play tennis than you think of the slight drawbacks which may lie in their contact with the sun.

If your arms become burned or tanned, try the following lotion: Lemon juice, one ounce. Strained honey, one ounce. Cologne, one ounce.

Apply this lotion frequently—several times a day if you have the chance, as well as at night when you go to bed. The tan on your arms will tone down.

Here is a lotion to remove freckles, which, as all women who have them know, are more difficult to remove than tan:

Powdered borax, 1/4 dram. Lemon juice, 1 ounce.

The lemon juice is rather strong in its action on your skin

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

To Clean Felt

The delicate-hued felt hats popular these days will clean up beautifully if the soiled parts are rubbed with fine sandpaper and the entire hat rubbed with chalk and magnesia.

In a Bag

One housewife has had good results by boiling ham in a cloth bag. She lets it cool in the bag and turn back the bag cuts the ham as needed. She gets all flavors and juices are retained.

Why Is It?

There was once a time when housewife allowed eight servings a quart of ice cream. That is a thing of the past and it is faster to figure on five servings the old-fashioned method of

A New Way

One woman uses a set of aluminum skewers to hold chicken or turkey together. She threads the skewers through the two sides and strings over them much as would lace a shoe. Then she removes the skewers the entire lot is at the disposal of the carver.

She stood looking at him a moment, and then ran out of the room.

Horrible, he ran after her. She had locked herself into her bedroom—locked herself in him out.

This was their first scene. It was peculiarly distressing, cause nobody was angry, sorry.

FAMOUS WOMEN

LUCY BERRY

LUCY BERRY died in Nov. 21, 1852, at the age of 90, and in addition to celebrated for her own attainments was widely known as one of the "wives" of Horace Walpole of Oxford. The other "wife" was her sister, Agnes.

Of course the term "wife" applied in only a joking way. Mary and Agnes Berry enjoyed friendship of the great Walpole and after the latter's death his father's title he offered hand and coronet to Mary.

She did not accept him, but preferred to continue their friendship as it had been, and it lasted the death of Walpole. He used to call the two sisters "two wives" and was constantly changing visits with them when near, or letters when distant.

After the father's death, the sisters were responsible for preserving much of his correspondence which was later issued under the title, "Reminiscences of the Countess of George I. and II."

On Walpole's death the Berry and their father were the literary executors, with charge of collecting and publishing his writings, which task they accomplished. The sisters choker collars, bustles—truly Economical Elsie is a close rival to the ancient maid of Sparta. But, somehow, she fails to please!

Is it because Love and Man say, "I don't know but what I like you better all bundled up?"

It kinda looks that way to me. But may Missus Fashion never send us back to a few of the things I've mentioned a bit back! Could we women of these days breathe in an iron jacket? Could we be happy under a bolster on our heads? Could we wear a choker-collared and smile?

Man and Love, and some mysterious thing we call the Times, have made us what we are today—and now they are none of them satisfied. If we are a mote in their eyes—we are at last a mighty comfortable mote!

THOSE who summer at the beach are quite likely to need many oil cloth bags in which bathing suits are carried. The bags are in dark colors, usually ornamented with appliques of felt, fruit, or flowers, in bold coloring. The bags are in many cases silk-lined which makes them practical for the purpose for which they are used.

The oilcloth bags are also good for picnic supplies. For this purpose they are made like a boxed cushion so that a lot of room is created inside. Oilcloth covered cushions are also among picnic conveniences. In looking about among the picnic paper supplies we find that paper napkins have not only developed hemstitched edges, but also have monograms stamped on them.

Women are making fern pot covers out of the colored millinery straw braid which is easy to sew and quite Oriental in appearance when made. Some paint it with bold decorative motifs, which are quite striking under the greenery of the ferns. Unfried bean pots are also used as containers for the ferns and here again the home artist paints them in fantastic fashion.

Old-fashioned linen shawl strap rolls are coming in fashion again and are wonderfully handy for the all-day outing. The rolls are cut 24 inches long, the round-end pieces the size of a 12-inch dinner plate. The roll is filled in around the round ends, lapped well at the top, and fastened with three big buttons and loops. Two narrow handles are placed across the top so that the roll may be carried over the arm. The rolls are made of crash in white or in the natural color and the stitching on them is in black initials on the round ends, and the seams and flaps are overstitched. Many people use a leather shawl strap for the rolls. If heavier things are to be carried in them.

Mrs. Timmy's Shocking Discovery

"Tis sometimes better not to know what neighbors do, or where they go."
—Old Mother Nature.

BOTH Mrs. Timmy the Flying Squirrel and Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse were much disturbed by seeing Spooky the Screech Owl around again. However, they did not see him again that night, so they concluded that it was just chance which had brought him over there. You know the Wood Mice and the Flying Squirrels prefer the dusk to daylight and that is just the time that Spooky the Screech Owl prefers. So the members of the Flying Squirrel family and the members of the Wood Mouse family always have to keep their eyes open for members of the owl family.

It was only two or three mornings after Mrs. Timmy and Mrs. Whitefoot had seen Spooky that Mrs. Timmy came hurrying home a wee bit late. Already the Black Shadows had fled away from the Green Forest. It was quite light there. Mrs. Timmy climbed to the top of a tree and prepared to make one of her wonderful jumps and glides through the air to land on the foot of the apartment tree in which her home was. Just as she prepared to jump she suddenly dug her claws into the tree and held on with all her might. And she held her breath, too.

Spooky the Screech Owl, on those wings which made no sound, had just sailed past and had gone straight to that very apartment tree in which Mrs. Timmy and Mrs. Whitefoot lived. He had gone straight to a big entrance about half way up the tree and had disappeared through it. Still Mrs. Timmy sat there staring across at that entrance with eyes filled with disbelief and fright. Even while she looked Spooky's face appeared in the doorway. He sat there for a few moments, snapping his bill. With the sound of each snap Mrs. Timmy's timid little heart thumped.

Spooky looked sleepy. He blinked and blinked. He was sleepy. He, too, had been out longer than usual. So he didn't stay sitting in his doorway very long. Mrs. Timmy saw him disappear. She waited until she was quite certain that he wasn't likely to be seen again. Then she jumped and glided down to the foot of the apartment tree. Her home was around on the other side and you should have seen how quickly she dodged around that side after alighting on the trunk at the end of her long glide. You see, she was fearful that the little thump she made in landing might be heard by Spooky.

Mrs. Timmy started up the tree. As usual she started to pass close to the entrance of Mrs. Whitefoot's home. Mrs. Whitefoot was nowhere to be seen. Mrs. Timmy squeaked softly. Mrs. Whitefoot popped her head out.

"My goodness, Mrs. Timmy, whatever alls you?" squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot. "You look as if you had seen something shocking."

"I have," whispered Mrs. Timmy. "I have the most awful news for you."

Little Mrs. Whitefoot began to look frightened. "What is it?" she whispered.

"Spooky the Screech Owl is in the apartment tree!"

"What is it?" she whispered.

"What is it?" she whispered.

MACMILLAN MAY HAVE TO ABANDON POLAR FLIGHTS

Navy Asks for Opinion on Subject From Commander Byrd, After Washington Conference.

ANXIETY CAUSED BY BAD WEATHER

Expedition Would Concentrate on Exploring Greenland and Labrador for Scientific Information.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A possibility developed today that the Macmillan Arctic expedition might abandon for this year its effort to fly over the unknown region of the Far sea.

A message asking for an opinion on that subject from Lieutenant-Commander Byrd, commanding the navy section, was dispatched by the navy after a conference between officials of the navy and of the National Geographic Society, sponsor of the expedition.

Bad Weather Reported. It was indicated that the conference went into the question of whether it would be better to give up the attempt to fly over the unknown region this year and concentrate on exploring regions of Greenland and Labrador in quest of scientific information.

The weather for some time has been giving the expedition increasing apprehension. Repeated messages have told of unusual conditions with storms, ice-filled bays and fjords and mountains covered with ice and snow.

A message from the expedition said last night that this week would determine whether the expedition could succeed in its major purpose and indicated that if adverse weather continued there was little hope of complete success.

Unless the expedition can become well established at an advanced base at Cape Thomas Hubbard on Axel Heiberg Island by Sept. 2, it probably will be blocked by the advance of winter. So far it only has been possible to establish an intermediate base on Ellesmere Island, a little more than 100 miles from Etah, Greenland, the main base, and this was done with the greatest difficulty.

Cape Thomas Hubbard is more than 200 miles farther on, in a difficult country, where none of the planes has yet penetrated.

Report Expected. Upon the receipt of the message dispatched today, Commander Byrd is expected to confer with Commander Macmillan, chief of the expedition, and report their conclusions to Washington.

Aviators with the expedition daily are flying over the long stretches of jagged, snow-covered peaks, where, if a Liberty motor falls results will be serious.

If the ice barriers that for centuries have guarded the Far North from the explorer prevent a landing on the water there is but slight chance that the flyers may successfully come down on the deep valleys and towering ranges that stretch away below them.

In a message yesterday to the Navy department and in one relayed to the National Geographic Society by a 15-year-old amateur, Arthur Collins of Cedar Rapids, Ia., the explorers told of finding a heretofore unknown lake, frozen over, and of flying for miles over vast areas of rugged land never before looked upon by man.

Advance Depot Established. After much difficulty the aviators established an advance depot at Sawyer Bay, just north of Fiesler Fjord on Ellesmere Island, thereby conquering for the first time the broken ice fields that have obstructed their work.

The two messages gave many details of the experiences and hardships the party was encountering.

The message, relayed by the 15-year-old amateur, said: "The NA-2 is not yet ready for flight. The NA-1 and NA-3 are preparing for another attempt to reach Bay Fiesler and possibly Eureka Sound. If fjords are clear of ice possibly the work can be done. If no landing places can be found on water or land, success is doubtful. The men are flying over long stretches, where if the Liberty motors fail, results will be serious. The snow yesterday was a hard blow."

The Navy flyers roar away to Ellesmere Island and return with a swift. Dr. Koels is off for a five day trip in a dory to search for specimens. Two Eskimo, heavily laden, left a primitive shelter of skins and started over the 20 mile
